

On Wednesday, September 30, 2015, Governor Andrew M. Cuomo will hold "Capital for a Day," an initiative that brings the administration's top leadership and cabinet members to regions throughout the state for a day at a time, providing a new opportunity for state government to interact with local communities. The Central New York region will host the Governor's third "Capital for a Day."

As part of this special program, Chairman Vincent Bradley of the State Liquor Authority will be hosting a discussion on issues of concern to local craft beverage manufacturers on that day. The event will take place from noon until 2 PM at the Cornell Cooperative Extension of Cayuga County's Education Center located at 248 Grant Avenue in Auburn. Chairman Bradley will be joined by staff from various state agencies that will be available to discuss local priorities, state policy, and program initiatives that are important to the Central New York region, as well as to hear from you about how we can improve the delivery of state services for New Yorkers. Chairman Bradley cordially invites you to join him for this important event.

In order to participate, please register in advance at Michael.smith@sla.ny.gov or by calling (518) 486-4767 by 2PM, Tuesday, September 29, 2015.

Note: This invitation is non-transferable, unregistered guests may not be permitted, and a valid form of photo ID must be presented at the entrance for admission.

Attendees are requested to use designated on-site parking at the Education Center. Signs directing you to parking will be posted.
